Offroad Expo Giveaway — Winner Email

Type: One-off campaign Audience: The single tagged giveaway winner · Send: Monday, Oct 5, 2026, same day as the drawing · Risk: low Source: Chief of Marketing brief's Email Marketing section — `08 Events, Motorsport and Partnerships/01 SEMA and Trade Shows/Off-Road Expo 2026/jackman-campaign-brief-offroad-expo-giveaway-2026-09-30-v1.md` Status: Draft — not built in Klaviyo

Current Klaviyo state checked 2026-09-30: no "Off-Road Expo Giveaway Entrants" list exists yet (confirmed via `get_lists`) — it's created fresh by the landing page's embedded form. No prior consumer-facing giveaway campaign exists to check against (`get_campaigns` shows only dealer blasts and internal test sends to date).

Subject: You won — let's get you your wheels

Preheader: Pick your set from the Street line.

Hey [First Name],

You're the one. Out of everyone who stopped by the Jackman Wheels booth at Off-Road Expo, your name came up in the drawing — congratulations.

Here's what happens next: you get to pick any wheel from our Street line — any size, any finish we offer there, up to $2,016 in retail value. Forged and beadlock wheels aren't part of this one, but everything else in the Street line-up is fair game.

[Claim Your Wheels →] (see build notes — where this actually sends people still needs a decision)

One more thing — if you want to see your new wheels before anyone else does, follow us on Instagram and Facebook. We post there first.

Congrats again, The Jackman Wheels Team

[Instagram] [Facebook]

Build notes for Klaviyo

Placeholders to fill: `[First Name]` (Klaviyo personalization tag). The actual "claim your prize" mechanism is not decided and needs Austin's call before this is built — a reply-to-this-email flow, a dedicated Shopify page/form for the winner to select their set and shipping address, or a direct phone follow-up. The CTA button above is a placeholder for whichever of those gets chosen; don't build it as a plain email reply without confirming that's really how Austin wants to track the winner's selection.

Subject/preheader length and mobile-truncation check: Subject "You won — let's get you your wheels" — 35 characters. Preheader "Pick your set from the Street line." — 36 characters. Both well under the ~40-character point where mobile clients start truncating previews.

Segment: The single profile manually tagged (e.g. "Giveaway Winner") within the "Off-Road Expo Giveaway Entrants" list after the Oct 5 drawing. This is a one-recipient send — build and verify the segment filter carefully before scheduling so it can't accidentally go to the whole list.

Dark-mode / alt text / header mark: Body copy bone_white on dark backgrounds. Reversed logo on a solid ground, never transparency. Single CTA button, 44px minimum tap height. Alt text on the hero/product image describes the actual photo, not the filename.

Test in: Apple Mail dark, Gmail iOS dark, Gmail Android dark, Outlook.com dark.

Why it's built this way

One recipient, one clear ask (claim the prize), so the email doesn't bury the thing the winner actually needs to do under a long congratulations paragraph. The social-follow ask comes second, after the prize mechanics, so it doesn't compete with the main CTA. Tone stays warm and a little excited without oversell — per the brief's angle, this person already won; the email just needs to tell them clearly and get them moving.

FILE → `06 Lifecycle - Email and SMS / 02 Campaign Sends` / `jackman-email-offroad-expo-giveaway-winner-2026-09-30-v1.md`